(Petaluma, CA, February 22, 2017) In busy home kitchens most cooks would agree two faucets are better than one, especially if one of those faucets is a point-of-use. For this reason Sonoma Forge has launched a line of designer point-of-use (POU) faucets that supplement and complement the company's kitchen taps in popular elbow and gooseneck spout designs.

"These point-of-use faucets create a convenient and functional upgrade to any kitchen sink, ready to dispense handy chilled, filtered, or hot water for daily use or entertaining," says Erik Ambjor, President, Sonoma Forge. "Their matching spouts coordinate beautifully with our taller kitchen faucets for a designer look."

A secondary faucet makes everyone's life a little easier, according to Ambjor, whether dispensing chilled and filtered drinking water or instant piping hot water for tea, cocoa, or cereal. The Sonoma Forge POU faucets are compatible with all major brands of hot water dispensers, water chillers, and water filtration systems. Choose from hot only, cold only, and hot-and-cold models in elbow and gooseneck spout styles and standard finishes of Rustic Nickel, Satin Nickel, Rustic Copper, and Oil-Rubbed Bronze.

To complete a Brut kitchen suite, choose from point-of-use faucets, bar faucets, side sprays, soap pumps, as well as cabinet knobs and pulls. Continue the distinctive industrial chic look in the bath with lavatory faucets, Roman tub fillers, and coordinated accessories.

Retail prices for the line range from $520 to $650 for gooseneck design and $620 to $850 for elbow design.

Companion products from Sonoma Forge include main kitchen faucets, side sprays, soap pumps, and cabinet knobs and pulls.

Like all Sonoma Forge designer faucets and fixtures, the point-of-use faucets are made in America.
